

ALL AMERICANS ARE ORDERED TO LEAVE ETHIOPIA

WAR BETWEEN ITALIANS AND BLACKS SEEN

125 U. S. Citizens Are Now Living In Ethiopia

Addis Ababa, July 6.—(P)—One hundred and twenty-five Americans living in Ethiopia were advised today by their government to leave this war-threatened land.

Diplomatic quarters took the action to mean the United States—to which Emperor Haile Selassie appealed this week under the Kellogg anti-war pact—had virtually given up hope that Italy and Ethiopia would settle their differences peacefully.

Washington's reply to the emperor's appeal, which cited Italy's obligations under the 1928 outlawing war and asked that some way be found to make her abide by them, was received at the legation at noon.

It did not go to the government immediately. There was indication it was to be delayed until Monday.

(State department records show about 110 of the 125 Americans residing in Ethiopia are missionaries. They represent the Seventh Day Adventists of Tacoma Park, Md., the Sudan Frontier Mission of Philadelphia and the Women's General Missionary Society of the United Presbyterian Church of North America, which has headquarters in Pittsburgh.)

T. A. Lambie, intimate friend of the emperor and field director of the Ethiopian Mission Service, who is in London seeking to organize an ambulance corps for that nation, said 50 American missionaries stationed at Addis Ababa would not heed the legation's warning.

The mission's director discounted "the fact that the missionaries would be exposed to grave danger. He pointed out that Addis Ababa was difficult of access to Italian bombing planes, since the late Emperor Menelik, when he founded the capital 50 years ago, planted groves of eucalyptus trees over an area 10 miles long and three miles wide, thus camouflaging much of the city.

It was learned the emperor, disappointed in his effort to enlist the active interest of the United States in Ethiopia's cause had turned to Britain for aid in averting war with Italy.

SALES TAX COLLECTIONS

Springfield, Ill., July 6.—(P)—The state collected $3,675,838.30 in sales tax for June. K. L. Ames, Jr., director of finance, said today, showing a substantial increase over the $3,332,207.46 for the same period a year ago.

His catch was three feet long and had to be hauled ashore with a rope, while half a dozen swimmers scampered out of the water—Steele's "bass" was an alligator.

HUEY P. LONG HAS COURT FOR POLITICIANS

Is Well Pleased With Action of Special Session

Baton Rouge, La., July 6.—(P)—Huey Long "had court" for political followers in his skyscraper statehouse tonight, seemingly well pleased with action of the special session of the legislature in speeding his 26 "dictatorship clenching" bills toward final passage after midnight tomorrow.

He swapped yams with enthusiastic listeners in the governor's office of the 33-story capitol, satisfied with his conquest of the city administration of New Orleans and his firing and hiring privileges over every non-elective political employee in the state.

The session—the sixth extraordinary assembly in a year—was called Thursday night after Long rushed to Louisiana from Washington by airplane.

His measures went into the lawmaking hopper that night and with breath taking speed were steered toward final passage by the house of representatives today, unhampered by scant and feeble minority opposition.

The house adjourned until 12:30 a. m., Monday after sending the bills to the senate. It took the senate only a few minutes this afternoon to refer the bills to the finance committee where they were reported favorably at the rate of one a minute under Long's personal direction.

The senate then sent the measures to the legislative bureau and adjourned until 6 p. m. tomorrow. The bills will then be advanced to third reading and finally passed after midnight. Concurrently in amendments by the house will end another of Louisiana's momentous legislative meetings.

"Mercy" Slaying Is Successful; Suicide Fails

Mother Who Couldn't Stand To See Son Suffer Turns On Gas

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 6.—(P)—Rescuers who broke a window to force entrance found nine-year-old Jess Tubbs, physically handicapped son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Tubbs, asphyxiated and his mother near death beside him on a davenport bed in their gas-filled home today.

Police said a note under the mattress indicated that the tragedy was a "mercy" slaying and suicide attempt. The husband and father was in northern Michigan on a fishing trip. An effort was being made to locate him.

A portion of the note, as disclosed by authorities said:

"It's no use, Paul. I can't stand the heartache and worry any longer. I'm taking Babe out of the way. There's nothing for him but to go to a home in the end. But I love him too much for that."

"I brought him into the world. I'll take him out. I couldn't stand it without him anyway."

"Goodbye, daddy. Don't feel bad; we'll be better off. I know you have been worrying about what will become of him, and God will make him right up there. x x x"

"Goodbye, Paul. I'm sorry it was bound to happen. It isn't your fault. Neighbors said Mrs. Tubbs had brooded for years over her son's physical disabilities, particularly his failure to learn to talk."

At the hospital her condition was reported as serious.

HEAT RECORD

Sterling, Ill., July 6.—(P)—The temperature soared to 90 degrees today, a record for the year, claimed the life of Mrs. Richard Popkins, and caused prostration of three persons, all in serious condition in a hospital. They were P. J. McAndrews, roadmaster of the Galena division of the Northwestern Railroad, Charles O. Custer, a stationary engineer, and Mrs. Harold McDaniel.

RADICALS VOTE FOR CREATION OF THIRD PARTY

American Common- wealth Political Fed- eration Is Formed

Chicago, July 6.—(P)—Formal demand for the creation of a new national political party, which would launch its first campaign in 1936, was voted today by the "third party" advocates rally.

Quickly settling a controversy which had led up to their morning session, the conference of "liberals" decided their temporary organization, to act until a convention can be held, should be titled: "The American Commonwealth Political Federation."

That out of the way, they adopted their organizing committee's recommendation that the party go on record "as favoring a new national political party, based on the principle of production for use."

An executive committee to be elected here was directed to a national convention in time to get the proposed party in the running for 1936.

Delegates indicated the convention would likely be held in October.

Without much debate, six other recommendations detailing the officers, their duties and the general structure of the new federation, were approved by the shirt-sleeved delegates.

Officers of the federations will include a chairman, vice chairman, secretary and treasurer.

Its national committee will be composed of two delegates "elected at clearly representative state conventions, called by the national executive committee."

The executive committee, another approved recommendation, declared will be composed of "the national officers, and seven additional members elected at this convention."

Intentions of the conference to develop a new party on a national scale were emphasized in the eighth and ninth articles of the recommendations. They directed the executive committee to organize the states into "properly functioning units of the American Commonwealth Federation" and to arrange for city, county, ward and precinct units.

With the tenth recommendations another argument developed.

The majority report urged: "this conference affirm its belief in the Democratic process and the achievement of its ends through peaceful means. Members and groups shall be admitted to this federation which support this principle."

Chairman Paul H. Douglas, University of Chicago political economist, told the delegates this was strong enough to keep out communists.

But a minority report of Ray McKaig, which recommended "that all members of the community party and all those opposed to the Democratic process be excluded" drew support from the floor.

McKaig said, "for every communist we get less 10,000 votes."

Chairman Douglas nearly broke his gavel maintaining order as the debate waxed and the majority article approved.

STRAWN CLAIMS 'EXPERIMENTS' HALT RECOVERY

Declares Depression Should Have Ended Year Ago

Associated Press Staff Writer

Chicago, July 6.—(P)—Silas H. Strawn, noted lawyer and financier, said in an interview today that, except for what he called governmental "experiments," the nation now would be well into the recovery he forecast in 1929 when he predicted the depression would last five years.

Strawn was one of the few business observers then who realized at once the national business and industrial slump had moved in for a long engagement.

A past president of the United States chamber of commerce, he incurred strong criticism when he said soon after the market break of October, 1929, that universal "economic maladjustments" made a lengthy economic recession inevitable. He set five years as the minimum corrective period required.

"I am convinced," he said today, "that if we had carried on in a way which has always been consistent with our history and had applied ourselves persistently and courageously to working out of the depression, we now would be well on the way to a normal condition."

"In my judgment, the greatest deterrent to a return to normalcy has been the fear and apprehension resultant upon the continuous experiments in agriculture, industry and finance which have been imposed upon our people by the present administration."

A pulmotor is very effective in rescuing a drowning person but such relief is ephemeral and cannot be used to make that person strong and healthful."

Strawn said he could not undertake, under present conditions, to predict when "true normalcy" would be reached.

He scored President Roosevelt by inference, saying, "I hope that the recent decisions of the supreme court will convince the congress, if not our president, of the futility of further experiments which are not only inconsistent with the principles laid down by the founders of our government and expressed in the constitution, but are contrary to the judgment of experienced business men and sound economists."

The report said in the first five months of the fiscal year ended June 30, sales totaled $112,995,864, as compared with $84,807,348, in the corresponding period of the previous year, or an increase of 19.18 per cent.

Will Let High Court Decide If Laws Are Invalid

Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, July 6.—(P)—President Roosevelt was believed at the capitol today to be pointing the New Deal determinedly into an epochal political and constitutional struggle.

Whatever uncertainty existed before was offset by his request for the House way and means committee not to "permit doubts as to constitutionality, however reasonable to block" the Guffey coal bill.

Other developments this week also supported the prospect.

With challenges of its enactments pyramiding in the courts, the administration finally saw the Wagner bill become law and progress of the social security and utility control bills toward the statute books.

Each had been attacked as unconstitutional. The parties divided on the votes.

Suits to annul them will take their place alongside those already pending against the AAA and TVA. Thus a broad range of New Deal philosophy will be reviewed by the Supreme Court, possibly in time to influence the 1936 campaign profoundly.

If the essential principles share the fate of NRA and no other way can be found to effect them within the constitution, proposals to amend that instrument are expected.

If all should be sustained, "issues" now indicated would have less chance of realization.

In the months that must pass before the court acts, the current dispute over fundamentals of government is expected to grow. While the president has just broadened his objectives to include "wider distribution of wealth" through taxation, opposition to the New Deal centers the more on its alleged "un-Americanism."

Former President Hoover expressed it from the Republican viewpoint July 4, saying "liberty" was threatened.

Former Vice President Curtis suggested "save the constitution" as a rallying cry to regain the White House.

On the Democratic side, Governor Talmadge of Georgia and former Senator Blease of South Carolina warned against federal usurpation of "state rights." Senator Byrd of Virginia recalled George Washington's advice that "the choice is between the constitution and confusion."

Frank support of much of the New Deal by Republican independents in Congress, however, showed they do not share the Hoover fears. Only today in Chicago Senator Nye, (R., Ind.), said "between Roosevelt and what the Republicans are getting ready to put forward—a reactionary—Roosevelt is the way out for liberals."

Talk of a coalition ticket on the "right" next year persists, with the Liberty League mentioned as a potential rallying point. Its latest move was to denounce the wealth tax program as an unsound "political gesture."

Forces of the "left," feeling that the New Deal does not go far enough are seeking a basis for a third party movement.

Friends said Elizabeth had farming in mind when she purchased an estate from Count Toracovici, Hungarian magnate, near Timisoara not so long ago. She reportedly paid $5,000,000 for it.

These friends said the ex-Queen intends to convert the magnificent estate into an experimental farm on the American model and manage it with Szanavy. The estate is the only place in Rumania where rice is grown.

Elizabeth, now living in a palatial residence at Bucharest not far from that occupied by Mme. Magda Lupescu, King Carol's red-haired friend, expressed no surprise when informed her divorce suit had won. The proceedings were held in secret, and the court needed only 16 minutes to return its verdict. George, now living in London, paid no attention to the trial. He was not even represented by counsel.

Hot Weather Ideas

With the mercury hovering between 90 and 100 there are certain timely suggestions which citizens should heed. Plenty of water should be kept out for birds and animals. Pets about the home should have pans of water within easy access. A little care in this regard will save dogs, cats and other pets much suffering.

Farmers who are having to work their horses rather hard in the fields may save the animals great distress
if they will water them frequently.
Many horses have died since the beginning of intense labor in the fields, largely because they were not watched more carefully. The farmers should fill unused milk cans with water and take them to the fields. The horses should be watered at 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., and should be given frequent rests
at the end of the row.

Man also needs relief from the heat.
His own distress calls for relief in such weather. Everyone should drink plenty of water so that sweat will flow freely. While sweating is a rather inconvenient process, it is the safety valve of the human system in hot weather. Men working in the fields will be better protected from the heat if they will wear plantain leaves in their hats.

Limiting The Courts

The efforts of the administration to pass legislation which would prevent suits under the gold clause in U. S.
bonds, and the inclusion in amendments to the AAA law of a provision to prevent suits against the government for recovery of processing taxes, both point to a movement to limit the power of the courts to interfere with the experiments now in progress at Washington.

The right of a sovereign state to refuse to be sued is recognized, but it is hardly justifiable to deny citizens a remedy thru the courts for alleged wrongs done by government. Hearings by an impartial tribunal can hardly be denied with justice. Citizens who feel that they are deprived of their property without due process of law have a right to be heard.

The courts stand as a bar to unconstitutional acts of government. If they can be circumvented by legislation that prevents citizens from appealing to them, such acts can continue without interference. But the idea once started might result in some rather harsh legislation.

Thus it would be possible for Congress to enact laws preventing suit for recovery of any taxes wrongfully imposed. Congress might even repudiate the $28,000,000,000 national debt or any part of it. No one doubts the sovereign right of government to escape responsibility; but the exercise of that right depends on the discretion of those who hold the reins of government. The courts exist for the protection of the people, and when that protection is denied, the most important judicial function is destroyed.

A Staying Guest

H. W. Clayton, 24, robbed the postmaster at Silva, Mo., for which the federal court has just imposed upon him a 25-year sentence to Leavenworth penitentiary; the sentence is mandatory. Clayton, the still young has already seen the inside of five prisons in as many states. Since his last release, police credit him with more than fifty robberies.

Here is a man whom incarceration has done no good. To him a prison is a place to stay, but he will find now that it is a place for a very long stay.
When he is released again, he will be well beyond the age for securing profitable employment and taking his normal place in society.

For such a man prison is the best place. It would make little difference whether his term were long or short, he would return to a life of crime when released. Uncle Sam makes sure he will not have another chance at crime for a quarter-century. By that time the world will be a greatly changed place if changes continue as rapidly as they are now occurring.

Create The Demand

Advertisers know well the value of creating a demand for certain products. The public must be convinced that it wants a certain brand of goods. Once this is done the market is assured.

A Sidell, Ill., farmer convinced Henry Ford the products of soybeans could be used in the automobile industry. Then he planted 1,300 acres of soybeans. That was five years ago, and ever since Ford has been a consistent user of soybeans in the manufacture of paints and oils for his cars.
The man who convinced Ford of their value created his own market and then proceeded to meet the demand. He has found the plan profitable.

A group of men at a convention listened to a talk by an advertising expert. The men were then invited to the hotel lobby where an assortment of soft drinks awaited them for refreshment. There were all varieties, but a large majority of the men chose one particular drink. Upon their return to the meeting the expert asked why they had made their choice. Many frankly admitted advertising had turned the trick. The demand had been created and the market was assured. Manufacturers and merchants who advertise consistently need never worry about the sale of their products.

Nuisance Taxes

The so-called "nuisance" taxes levied by the federal government have been continued by act of Congress.
They would have expired June 30, but the necessity for security revenue led to their extension. Many who pay them may not realize what they are.
The most important is probably the penny surcharge on first-class postage, which keeps the three-cent stamp on letters in force. There are other taxes on gasoline, toiletries, automobiles and theater tickets. All are to be continued. They net Uncle Sam about half a billion dollars a year in revenue, which is an amount not to be lightly abandoned in these days of a greatly unbalanced budget.

The taxes are paid directly by purchasers of the articles taxed. Theater tickets are included in the list, with an exemption of 40 cents. According to the figures, the average citizen pays about $4 a year in these special federal taxes.

The New Money Center

La Salle Street and not Wall Street is expected to become the money center of the world, says Edward Jerome Dies in his new book, "Street of Adventure."

"By the magic of the pioneer and the skill of the tradesman," says the author, "Chicago has become a great financial center. It feeds the money hunger of the west. La Salle street has become a symbol for the machinery of banking and commerce, for the movement of crops, for financing progress."

"Nor is its ambition attained, for La Salle street fervidly believes it shall become the money center of the world. Scoffers may term this the baseless fabric of a vision, but so were dreams of the present short street that serves as a link between the blackened industrial tracts of the east and the gardens of the west; a street like an ocean, full of eddies and currents that no one man can control; a street whose machinery anticipates human needs and secures a more even and equitable level of prices—the very heart of western commerce."

The stories of fourteen characters—speculators and industrialists—who have wielded great influence upon the street are vividly told in the book.

Traffic Suggestions

The traffic situation in Jacksonville is still far from good. The main trouble seems to be in the business district loop streets and along the main streets leading into the square, where parking congestion renders travel difficult.

The angle parking along one side of the main streets reduces the highway space for traffic. If cars are parked too near the corners, the view is so obstructed as to make driving dangerous, and pedestrians have to step out beyond the line of angled cars before they can see whether it is safe to cross the street.

Double parking on the main streets causes traffic jams. Those who double park their cars often do so because they cannot get to the curb.
Large trucks which must unload merchandise also find it hard to find parking space. Double parking should be avoided; in fact the ordinance against it should be more strictly enforced.

On the narrow streets of the loop
two-way traffic is next to impossible.
With cars parked on both sides of these streets they are now practically one-way streets, and should be made so by ordinance. If they were used for travel only one way, cars could be parked parallel on both sides without inconvenience.

While angle parking on the main streets is convenient for the motorist, the streets are simply not wide enough for it, and it might be well to

THE NOT-SO-JOLLY MILLERS

return to the parallel parking plan.
For the convenience of those who wish to trade at stores along these streets parking time should also be limited. The more frequent use of parking lots is suggested as another means of helping the situation.

Behind
The Scenes
In Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER
(Journal-Courier Washington Correspondent.)

Washington—Democratic leaders in Congress exert great power and are allowed to pick men for hundreds of federal jobs. If the voters boot them out of elective office, they can be sure of soft presidential appointments.

But what a dog's life those old wheel-horses do lead!

Cast your eyes on Majority Leaders Joe Robinson and Pat Harrison in the Senate, then on Speaker Joe Byrns and Rules Chairman John J.
O'Connor in the House. The two senators, their friends, and their beliefs are of the most conservative hue.
Byrns is of the same stripe. O'- Connor is a son of Tammany Hall, whose game has always been to scatter crumbs to the poor while collecting from wealthy special interests.

Times without number, these gentlemen have writhed and held their noses as they helped push through New Deal measures so liberal as to be abhorrent to them all. What used to be principles with them succumbed to party regularity and the proceeds thereof.

Faithful Through Torture

Robinson and Harrison have been especially faithful. True, Harrison let out of his Finance Committee the bill which had virtually killed NRA before the U. S. Supreme Court did the job—but only after Roosevelt himself had weakened on the issue.
And Robinson could hardly stomach the holding company bill, which was such anathema to his close friends and associates in the power business—but he left a pair for the bill when he left town.

No two leaders ever took a harder blow on the chin than when Roose-

THEY NEED REST-RELIEF

Many employees of the agencies in the work-relief program, waiting around for something to do, occupy themselves by making wise cracks. One, based on the theory that it will be mostly a "leafraking" CWA program, is a conundrum:
Q: "Why don't they get started?"
A: "They're waiting for the leaves to fall!"

After being told at a press conference that Harrison and Robinson had said he wanted immediate action on his new tax program in connection with the nuisance tax extension which must pass in five days, declared the story was made up of "whole cloth." But, aside from their private expression, they kept quiet.

In defending the administration, the two Southern leaders have incurred
the hatred of Huey Long.
Now, badly worried by Huey's threats that he will go into Arkansas and Mississippi next year to defeat them for re-election, they are vitally dependent on administration support in their campaigns and could displease the president only at their political peril.

Kick Over Traces

O'Connor and Byrns haven't been quite as co-operative as Harrison and Robinson. Both laid down on Roosevelt when the holding company bill came up—but it took the all-powerful "power trust" to bring them an issue on which they'd do that.

O'Connor, whose first allegiance is to Tammany—whose delegation was all but solid against elimination of holding companies—was asked twice by Roosevelt for a rule which would permit a record vote on the elimination provision. Twice O'Connor promised it.

But, instead, he reported out rules which not only prevented that, but gave nearly all the debate time to the opponents—including Republicans—of the Senate bill backed by Roosevelt.

All this probably couldn't have happened had there been pressure from the easy-going, easily influenced Byrns.

Revenge for Byrns

The speaker was working off an old grudge harbored against an administration which never did want him to be speaker and against Chairman Sam Rayburn of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, who the administration had hoped could get the speakership.

Rayburn's committee had knocked out the president's pet elimination section, but Rayburn was leading the fight for it on the floor.

"They said they wanted Rayburn because he got more things done," Byrns had been quoted as saying, off the floor. "But he won't put over anything in this session."

So Byrns secretly encouraged O'- Connor, made statements disparaging the elimination section—which he later said were misquoted—and let the word get around the cloakrooms that it wasn't important for members to vote for that section.

Likes Her Work; Jealous Fiance
Insists She Must Give It Up

Should a girl give up a job she enjoys, that is well-paid and offers pleasant surroundings because her fiance insists upon it?

Or should she give up the fiance?
Jo Darien, heroine of "Sun-Tan,"
the new serial beginning July 8, Journal, July 9, Journal, has to decide this problem. Jo, who is 19 and just finishing her first year in college, learns that her parents face serious financial reverses. She hunts for a job and finally secures one as bookkeeper in a small marine supply store, at a salary of $10 a week.

Knowing this will barely pay her living expenses and leave nothing at all to contribute to her parents, Jo worries over money problems. She can hardly believe her good fortune when she is offered a job as hostess at Crest Lake Inn, fashionable summer resort, at a salary of $300 a month. Jo accepts the new job eagerly.

She breaks the news to her fiance, Bret Paul, college athletic star. Bret is working his way through school and has one more year before graduation. At the end of the year he and Jo plan to be married. But when Bret hears about Jo's new job at Crest Lake he objects vigorously and
insists she must give it up.

Jo is convinced that the real reason for Bret's objections is his jealousy of Douglas Marsh, wealthy owner of Crest Lake Inn. She feels that Bret should have complete confidence in her and that his attitude shows a lack of confidence. She finds it impossible to convince him that the reason she wants the job at Crest Lake is that it pays so much more than she could earn otherwise.

The situation is complicated by the fact that Bret knows that on the night before Jo broke a date with him to have dinner with Marsh. The disagreement between Jo and Bret soon becomes an open quarrel and Jo declares their engagement is at an end.

Bret leaves—and immediately Jo regrets her decision. For some time she waits hopefully, but he does not

Emma S. Henderson
Passes Away Here
Saturday at Age 85Widow of Taylor Henderson
Had Spent Entire Life
in This Community

Mrs. Emma Sharpe Henderson, widow of the late Taylor Henderson, died at 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning at Our Saviour's hospital at the age of 85 years. She was a lifetime resident of Morgan county.

The decedent was born in the Sharpe neighborhood northeast of Jacksonville, now better known as the Shiloh community. Her entire life was spent on the farm, her husband preceding her in death a year ago in June.

Mrs. Henderson is survived by a number of cousins. They are Miss Lou Martin, Mrs. Belle Johnson, J.
H. Martin, T. P. Martin, all of this city; Mrs. Alice Edwards, Daytona Beach, Fla.; Mrs. F. H. Metcalf,
Franklin; C. W. Larimore, Searcy,
Arkansas; Miss Myrtle Larimore,
Jacksonville; S. B. Larimore, Atlanta,
Ga.; Mrs. Helen Snerly, Coral Gables, Fla.; Miss Olive Runkle, Jacksonville
and Edward Sharpe, Springfield.

The remains are at the Reynolds Mortuary, where services will be held in the chapel Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Rev. G. T. Wetzel will officiate. The remains will be placed in the Diamond Grove mausoleum.

return. Two days later she sets out for Crest Lake Inn.

What happens there, where Peter Fragonet, movie actor, appears on the scene, where Douglas Marsh's eccentric mother makes trouble, and where Jo almost loses her life in an overturned sailboat makes "Sun-Tan" one of the most exciting serials ever written.

Jo is a thoroughly likeable, understandable heroine. Nineteen years old, with blond hair and clear blue eyes, she has a happy disposition and refuses to be downed by misfortune.
"Sun-Tan" is in every sense an ideal summer serial. Watch for the first chapter beginning July 8, Cou-ner—July 9, Journal.

to ascertain if there are other fractures. The two other men received treatment there and were able to go to their homes. Dr. Reginald Norris was summoned to attend the victims of the wreck.

The car was headed north at the time the driver lost control. It went over the curb and into a large pole,

Central Illinois Pig Crop This Year is Smallest on Record

Spring Production Was 19 Per Cent Under Figure for 1934 Season

The Illinois 1935 spring pig crop was 19 per cent less than the small crop of 1934 and 38 per cent smaller than the average for 1932 and 1933, according to a survey made by the Illinois and Federal Departments of Agriculture in cooperation with the Post Office Department through the rural carriers. Morgan county statistics were included in the survey.

This is one of the smallest if not the smallest spring pig crop on record in Illinois, with 472,000 sows saving 2,893,000 pigs during the period December 1, 1934 to June 1, 1935. The number of pigs saved per litter averaged 6.13 which compares with 5.94 saved in 1934 and 5.58 in 1933. This high average per litter is due primarily to the extra attention which farmers gave the sows at farrowing time.

Decrease in Corn Belt

The number of pigs saved in the corn belt this spring was 23,703,000, or a decrease of about 22 per cent compared with the 1934 crop and 42 per cent from the average of 1932 and 1933. The largest decreases were in those states which suffered most from both the 1933 and 1934 droughts where feed supplies were extremely short. The decrease in this group of states ranged from 53 per cent in South Dakota to 6 per cent in Wisconsin. The United States crop decreased 20 per cent from last spring and 46 per cent from the average number saved in the spring of 1932 and 1933. There were 30,402,000 pigs saved this spring compared with 37,807,000 last spring and an average of 51,216,000 for the springs of 1932 and 1933. The number of pigs saved per litter in the spring season of this year was somewhat larger than in 1934 for both the corn belt and the United States. The number of sows farrowing decreased 25 and 22 per cent, respectively, for the corn belt and the United States.

Forecast Fall Figures

The number of sows to farrow between June and December 1, 1935 is estimated at 293,000 for Illinois, 2,096,000 in the corn belt and 3,775,000 for the entire United States. This amounts to an increase over last fall of 20 per cent for Illinois, 28 per cent for the corn belt and 19 per cent for the United States. These estimates are based upon the interpretation of breeding intentions reported about June 1 and assume the relationship between breeding intentions and subsequent farrowings will be fairly similar to the relationship in other recent years excepting 1934. In 1934 the drought caused a much larger decrease in farrowings than was indicated by breeding intentions in a number of states.

The number of hogs over six months of age on farms June 1 this year was much smaller than on that date in 1934 or any recent year. The indicated decreases from last year are about 30 per cent for the United States and 37 per cent for the corn belt.

Germany Puts War Babies in Arms

In 1914, when German soldiers goose-stepped toward France to the beat of martial drums, thousands left behind wives and newborn babes. Now these babies, grown to manhood, are entering the military life. Complying with the German conscription act, Germans born in 1914 must undergo a period of military training. In the photo above, one of the "war babies" is pictured undergoing his physical examination, while others await their turn.

DOWN WAVERLY WAY

Centennial Year Sketches of Morgan County's Second City

By MRS. GEO. P. ROMANG

Down Waverly Way may be seen an immense elm tree its widespread branches sheltering a nearby house of generous proportions. Measuring twenty-three feet around the base reaching its mighty head high toward the heavens, this tree has patiently watched the march of time. For nearly a hundred years the tree has stood, sturdy and straight as the pioneer men who planted it.

It has watched the waving acres of wild prairie grass undulating day by day as the Eastern families straggled across the country to find homes in the middle west. It has watched through the years when the Indians roamed the land—years when the slowly moving ox teams carried the precious belongings of the pioneers from their eastern homes. Belongings now become antique and hoarded with jealous care—furniture, quilts, coverlets, dishes and glassware.

Then the tree rising high above his fellows saw war come to the land—bloody war. He watched as the cream of the young sons of the pioneers donned their uniforms of blue, shouldered their muskets and marched away. Years of fear and want and death—years of anxiety and hopelessness—waiting. Then one spring day in '65 the leaves of the old tree fluttered gaily in the April wind as he watched the young men return—not all of them—some were left sleeping on southern battlefields—some returned with empty sleeves and some hobbled home on crutches. So year after year the old tree has stood patiently watching. He saw large farms spring up, more land in cultivation, families moving into Waverly as the people he had sheltered entered once more into the business of living.

He saw the mule teams and horses take the place of the slow moving oxen. He saw machinery do the farm work and the fall give way to the thrasher. Then he saw a strange new way of transportation that soon was to sidetrack the faithful horse.

He saw prosperity come to his beloved middle west, great farms with commodious farm and town houses and modern schools. Then again came rumors of war—war across the distant seas. Again the young men were called to the colors. Beneath the old tree's sheltering wings they gathered, this time clad in khaki. Again the feverish activities of war went on below the old elm's branches until at last those who had survived once more reached the old home town.

Years passed quietly along the road by the old tree. The strange new cars that thundered past were terrifying but became so numerous that at last they were accepted by the giant tree.

Then came loads of men and after weeks of activity and noise there was a wide, smooth ribbon of concrete reaching for miles in each direction and cars passing swiftly by. Day and night they pass it by as the giant tree shakes his leaves in passing annoyance wondering what will be the next new thing.

A hundred years of progress—and the old tree still stands. Generation after generation has come and gone, progress, trouble, war and life. Strange is it not, that one old elm tree should outlive generations of men? We manufacture machinery, we build our homes, we invent new methods of living—but after all, "Only God can make a tree."

FARM BUREAU DAY AT STATE FAIR TO BE MARKED AUG. 23

The Illinois State Fair, considered the greatest livestock exposition and educational show of any state fair in the country, is planning to outdo all previous records this year when the Fair opens at Springfield, Aug. 18, according to information received from Walter W. McLaughlin, state director of Agriculture by the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Mr. McLaughlin reports that Friday, August 23, again has been designated as Farm Bureau Day when the Illinois Agricultural Association will be host to Farm Bureau members and their friends in the 102 counties of the state. The IAA expects to have its headquarters in a huge tent north of the livestock pavilion as in previous years.

POWER TO GO
AND POWER TO STOP

A SAFE CAR helps to make a safe driver. The Ford Motor Company sees to it that you get a safe car. Unusual power to go is combined with unusual power to stop. Ford brakes are an outstanding feature. They are powerful, efficient and easy to apply—with more braking area per pound of weight than any other car under $1095.

But Ford safety is more than the safety of good brakes. It is built into every part of the car.

The Ford body is all steel . . . steel reinforced with steel and electrically welded into a one-piece unit for still greater strength. All Ford body types have Safety Glass throughout at no extra cost.

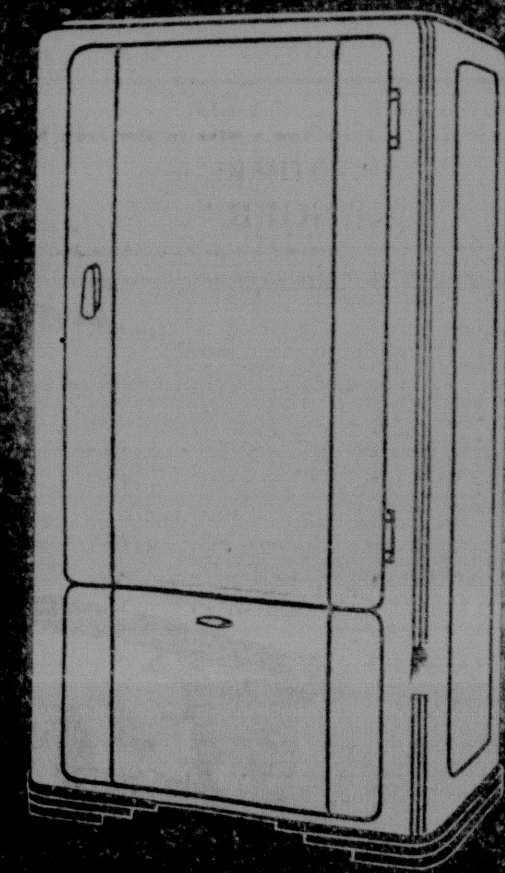

Three other reasons why you will feel safer in a Ford are ease of handling, stability, and the alert, obedient performance of the V-8 engine.

The Ford is steady on curves. It hugs the road because of correct weight distribution and because its center of gravity is low. You will find that the steady, sure response of the Ford communicates calmness and confidence to those in the car and makes each journey easier and more reposeful.

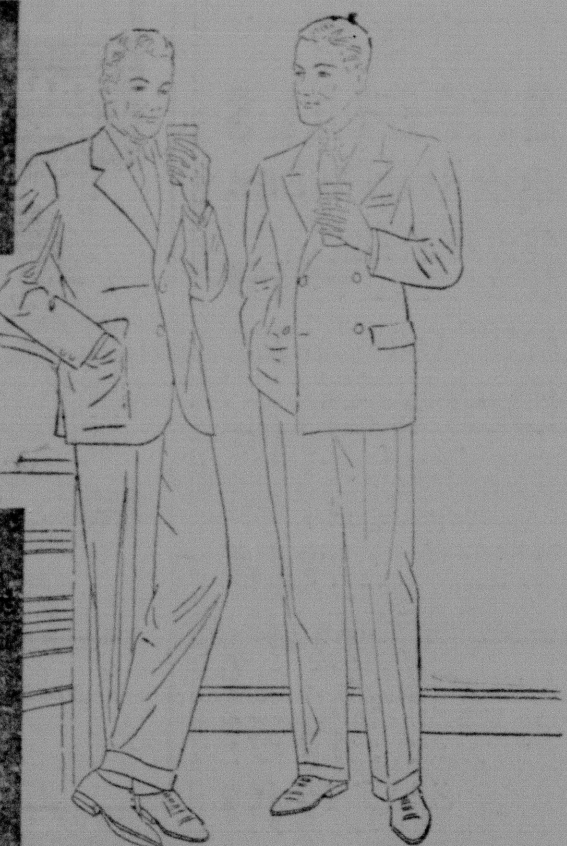

The Ford thus gives you double safety. The way it drives helps you to avoid danger. The way it is built provides unusual protection in time of emergency.

Memorial Studied

Some Suggest Hospital or Auditorium Instead of Proposed Statue

Carrollton, Ill.—A bill appropriating $25,000 for a memorial to the late Speaker of the House, Henry T. Rainey, was one of over two hundred bills passed during the closing hours by the state legislature. The memorial is to be located at Carrollton. Nothing definite is yet known as to the course of action in putting the project into execution, but it is expected that a commission will be appointed by the governor composed partly at least of prominent Greene county citizens and that they will agree as to the nature of the memorial and where it will be placed. This was the procedure when the state appropriation was made for the Governor Carlin statue, which was erected in the east side of the court house park.

Several suggestions have been made that the $25,000 be put into something more useful than a statue, but what that may be is a matter of widely divergent opinions. Some have suggested a hospital, others a park, and still others are in favor of an auditorium at the Carrollton school.

Helen Wills Moody Stages Brilliant Rally in Final Set to Beat Helen Jacobs

By Gayle Talbot
Wimbledon, Eng., July 6.—(P)—Helen Wills Moody, poker-faced darling of Wimbledon's galleries for more than a decade, reclaimed the world's feminine tennis championship today with as fine and gallant a last-ditch rally as the game ever has seen.

Heading into what seemed certain defeat and frustration in the come-back campaign that has stirred the tennis world, the 29-year-old San Francisco matron dramatically overcame a 2-5 deficit in the third and deciding set of her match with Helen Jacobs, American title-holder for three years, downed her arch rival, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5, and annexed the all-England singles crown for the seventh time.

Seventeen thousand fans who sat or stood through the struggle verged upon hysteria before Miss Jacobs, run to the point of exhaustion, knocked the final ball over the back corner after an hour and 40 minutes of grueling play.

The victory supplied all the vindication Mrs. Moody ever will need for the incident in the American championship final of 1933 when, suffering from a back injury, she walked off the court in the third set with Miss Jacobs leading, 3-0. She was accused then of quitting, of depriving Miss Jacobs of a chance for a clean-cut, undisputed victory.

Today, however, she gave a conclusive rebuff to any one who ever questioned her fighting heart. Almost as though she willed it, Mrs. Moody again gave her fighting adversary a three game advantage in the third set, the same advantage Miss Jacobs had enjoyed at Forest Hills. She even spotted Miss Jacobs a 3-2 lead later in the set and once, in the ninth game, had match point staring her in the face.

Then like an avenging goddess, she won five straight games from one of the greatest fighters who ever donned tennis shorts, and pulled the match out of the fire.

When the final point kicked the dust over the baseline, the winner ecstatically tossed her racket over her shoulder almost into the bleachers and literally raced to grasp her defeated rival's hand.

Miss Jacobs stood up bravely as they walked off side by side and the crowd stood and roared its approval for many minutes.

Trades and Labor Assembly To Sponsor Fight Card Here

Amateur boxing will return again to Jacksonville July 19 when the Jacksonville Trades and Labor Assembly will sponsor a popular price eight bout card with Promoter Guy Woods handling the details. The bout will be held in a new open air theater to be built at 212 East Court street, near the Auto Inn.

Quincy's Golden Gloves champions probably will be the opponents of the local boxing team. Promoter Woods said yesterday. The Quincy team is coached by George Meyers, former Golden Gloves heavyweight title holder, and now a member of the Quincy police force.

Bob Elliott, local heavyweight, is assisting Woods in getting the local fighters ready for the bouts at his training camp in the reservoir near the water pumping station.

Woods, in preparing the card, is attempting to arrange something new for the local fans. He is planning to have the last three bouts five rounds each, and to match Tommy Barry, 1934 International Golden Gloves and National A.A.U. champion, against Bert Ellis, 118 pound Golden Gloves champion. If this match materializes, Woods declares it will produce the like of which has never been seen here.

If it is possible to match Ellis and Barry, the two boys, both 118 pounders, will be given the wind-up spot on the card. Steve LaRossa, 190 pound Illinois College football tackle, probably will get one of the semi-final spots.

With either John Pruitt, who has been plying up an impressive record of knock-outs, or James Caon, local negro, in the other semi-final, depending upon the competition the Quincy team has to offer.

Herman West, 175 pound winner in the Centralia Golden Gloves tournament last year and an alternate on the Chicago Tribune team which met the team from Italy, is also being sought as a member of the local team.

Arrangements already have been made to put Charles Howell, lightweight, champion of Southern Illinois and Centralia Golden Gloves winner in his class, Johnny Walker, who fought many bouts at Hillview a year ago, on the local team.

GOING TO CALIFORNIA
Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Rice, Mrs. J. W. Leach and John L. Robinson will leave on Monday for San Diego, California, where they will visit the Exposition. They will then visit in the northern states, including stops in Seattle and Spokane, Washington. They will return by way of Denver, Colorado.

VISITOR AT WOODSON
Mrs. M. K. Prevot of Brighton, Ill., is visiting at the home of her niece, Mrs. Lawrence Henry at Woodson.

Mrs. Vera Pollock, book-keeper at the Illinois Steel Bridge Co., is spending the week-end at her home in Nebo.

Giving Champ a Helping Leg

Every sport spectator recalls the times when he involuntarily has strained every muscle to help push a winner over the line. That's the way these two students felt as they lifted their legs in unison to give Milt Ordway just a little more power as he went over the bar at 12 feet 1 1/2 inches. Milt, a Milwaukee athlete, is Wisconsin high school pole vault champion.

Cubs Take One From Bucs 10-3

Pittsburgh, July 6.—(P)—The Chicago Cubs ended a four-game losing streak today by beating Pittsburgh in 13 innings 10 to 3, after the Pirates had tied up the game with a six-run ninth inning attack.

Cavarretta's fourth single of the game sent Galan home with the winning run in the final inning and Tommy Thevenow's error let Herman in with a second run.

The game started out as a pitchers' battle between Guy Bush, ex-Cub, and Tex Carleton. Bush was lifted in the seventh and Mace Brown, Weaver and Hoyt all worked before Swift, the losing hurler, went into the game in the tenth.

Carleton permitted but two hits until the seventh when Thevenow's triple and Grace's double scored a run and brought an ex-Pirate, Larry French to the rescue. French was chased in the ninth inning uprising, in which a bad throw by Stanley Hack to Cavarretta let in the tying run.

Galan hit a home run for the Cubs in the seventh. Arky Vaughan, leader of both leagues in hitting, went without a safety in four times at bat.

Vaughan Shoots His Bat Mark Upward

Lay-off Fails to Affect Pittsburgh's Leading Bat

Wieder

New York.—(P)—All predictions to the contrary, Arky Vaughan resumed hitting at his usual clip or a little better when he returned to action after spending two weeks on the sidelines with a charley horse and his hitting feats furnished the outstanding feature in the big league batting race during the past week.

Only a few of the leading swat-smiths of the two circuits could improve their average but Vaughan, after a brief slump, rallied to shoot his mark up to .406 in yesterday's games. That showed a gain of six points through the week, in which he made 13 hits in 29 times at bat.

Bill Terry of the Giants picked up eight points to jump from sixth place to third among the National League leaders while Wally Moses of the Athletics gained six points and moved up from seventh to second in the American League.

The Magic Story of LIFE INSURANCE in Morgan County—

... Since Jan. 1, 1935, the people of Morgan County have added approximately $2,000,000 to the estimated $31,000,000 of Life Insurance they owned at the first of the year.

... During the month of June the purchases of new Life Insurance policies totaled $278,000.

... Portions of this $33,900,000 are being paid back into Morgan County to the families of deceased policyholders each week. Some is being paid as cash from matured policies; some is being paid back as cash loans to meet emergency needs of families. Some is being paid back monthly as a life income to policyholders.

... Through the modern miracle of Life Insurance Morgan County families are being provided for; elderly people are provided with an income; debts are being paid; business houses are being saved—all because certain people have contracted that it be done through the miracle of Life Insurance.

... While some people do not have the means to provide insurance, and 10% of those who apply are refused yet, it is available to the majority of the heads of families and business houses in the county.

... The following counselors and salesmen of Life Insurance will gladly assist you in planning the future of yourself and your family:

Tigers Noseout Browns 7 To 6

Detroit, July 6.—(P)—The Detroit Tigers hung up their ninth consecutive victory today, a 7 to 6 triumph at the expense of the St. Louis Browns, and edged to within a few percentage points of the pace-setting New York Yankees.

Tommy Bridges started for Detroit. He was touched for six hits, three walks and five runs before he was removed for a pinch batter in the second. Rowe finished the game, allowing five hits and receiving credit for his ninth victory.

The former Arkansas schoolboy was in trouble only in the eighth, in which a string of pinch batsmen found him for three singles and a run to tie the score at 6-6 after the Tigers had come from behind in the sixth.

Dodgers Smother Giants 12 To 7

New York, July 6.—(P)—Just to show that yesterday's uprising was no fluke, the Dodgers again pummeled the Giants today, winning 12 to 7 with a 16-hit outburst to clinch the three-game series. This marked the first series loss for the league leaders since the Cards took two out of three back in May.

A seven-run outburst in the fifth inning when they bunched five hits with an error by Mark Koenig, two walks and a hit batsman, clinched the game for the Dodgers and sent Roy Parmelee to the showers with his second defeat of the season. Old Tom Zachary went the route for Brooklyn despite the heat and a weak finish.

Horner Signs Bill Extending Life of Educational Group

Acts on 30 Bills, Approving 16, Vetoing 6, and Passing 8

Springfield, Ill.—(P)—The biennial appropriation for the office of John A. Wieland, state superintendent of public instruction, which was set at $295,140 by the general assembly, has been reduced $48,960 by Governor Horner.

Mr. Horner vetoed eight items in the bill before giving his approval to the remainder.

In vetoing the eight items, the governor today said:

"The total appropriations of the superintendent of public instruction xxx are more than 40 per cent over the last biennium and almost 30 per cent over the appropriation made in 1931.

"We, of course, must provide sufficient funds for the superintendent of public instruction to perform the important duties of his office. I am reluctant to take issue with the general assembly as to the amount necessary for this purpose. There has been no increase at this time in the duties to be performed by this office. I have repeatedly urged reduction in the cost of government in order to lighten the burden upon the taxpayers of this state. Most of the various departments of the state government have responded to this urging. I know of no valid reason why the cost of conducting the office referred to should be increased 40 per cent over the appropriation of 1931 and in excess of appropriations theretofore made."

The items vetoed by Mr. Horner were: One assistant to the superintendent and legal adviser at $5,000 a year; one course of study director at $3,600; one course of study clerk at $3,200; one executive secretary at $1,980; one assistant clerk at $2,600; one statistical clerk at $3,000 and another at $2,700 and one clerk at $2,400.

King Celebrates by Making Air Force Inspection

Mildenhall, Airdrome.—(P)—King George celebrated his 42nd wedding anniversary today by reviewing the massed might of Great Britain's air force.

Accompanied by the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York, who were dressed in royal air force blue like their father, the king drove up and down the updrun squadrons. He paused occasionally and left his open car to chat with officers who explained the newest details of the airplanes.

After motoring to Duxford, where Queen Mary joined the king, the royal couple were to return to Buckingham Palace for a quiet anniversary observance.

Hot Soybeans May Be Sold Soon Over Nation for Eating

Toasted and Salted, One of Illinois' Main Crops is Now on Market

Chicago.—(P)—"Step right up and get your soybeans! They're red hot and extra fresh." No, that isn't a new call designed to attract livestock out on the farm, but one which may be heard ere long in the nation's ball parks, circus tents and carnival midway.

They're really being sold for human consumption.

Toasted soybeans, salted and packaged, are now being offered for sale in Chicago taverns and delicatessens, and the company packing them has announced it plans to push them into other suitable spots as soon as possible.

Thus is opened up another outlet for a crop which in recent years has increased in value tremendously to Illinois farmers. In 1934, figures from the State Department of Agriculture show, soybeans brought $8,091,000 to Illinois farmers. More than half the country's total acreage—54 per cent—was in this state. Illinois' production, 9,519,000 bushels, was the largest on record.

Because of their high protein content—40 per cent—soybeans are regarded by nutritional experts as the most perfect meat substitute. They have been made into flour, lard substitutes, macaroni, and dozens of other forms of human food, and enter into many types of feed for livestock.

Harvey J. Scone, farm owner near Siddell, Ill., planted 1,300 acres to soybeans in 1930 after convincing Henry Ford they could be used in the automobile industry. Since then, Ford has become one of the largest users of industrial products based on soybeans—paints and moulded products.

The protein content of the beans made them particularly suitable for this latter use. Combined with formaldehyde, the protein formed a "thermoplastic resin," chemists discovered, similar in character to animal horn and milk casein.

Oil produced from the beans has been classified as semidrying by the University of Illinois, particularly suitable as a linseed oil substitute in paintmaking. A bulletin issued by the university pointed out that as high as 30 per cent of soybean oil could be used in this field if proper pigment combinations were added.

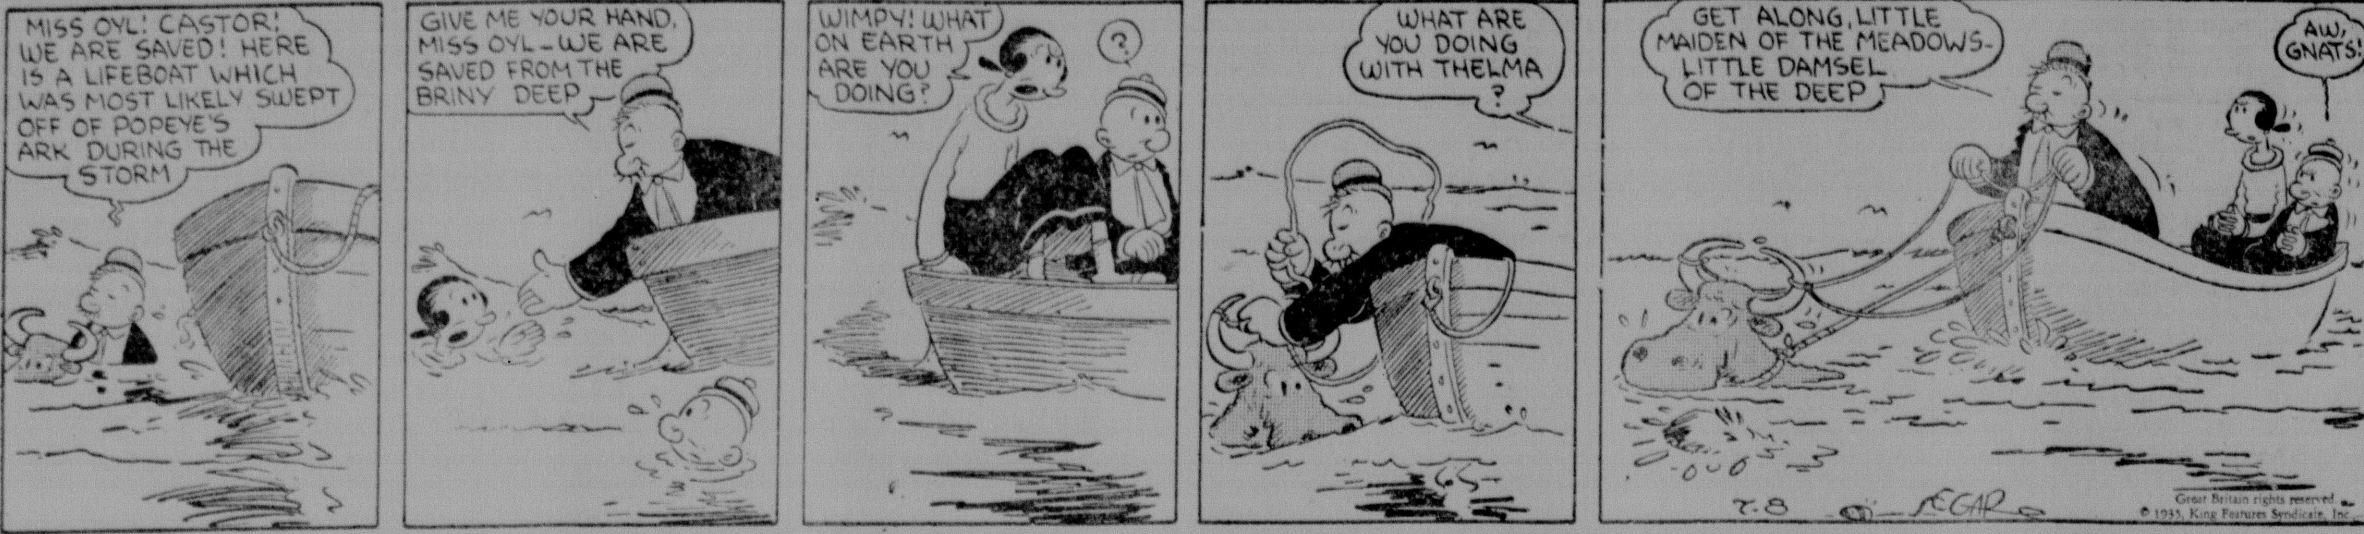

TO END VISIT HERE
Bruce Thomson, son of Judge Wm. E. Thomson, who has been spending the week-end at home, will return to Champaign Sunday afternoon, where he is attending the summer session of the University of Illinois.

Swift & Company Purchased High Grade Steers of Jerseyville Man

Jerseyville, Ill.—Seventy-six head of cattle belonging to Frank J. Kallal, a farmer residing northwest of Jerseyville, were sold Tuesday, July 2nd, for a total of $11,658.75. The purchase was made by Swift and Company.

Fifty-six head, weighing more than fourteen hundred pounds, were shipped to Somerville, Massachusetts, to the Swift plant and these brought $11.75 per hundred. The remaining twenty head were sold to the company in Harrison, New Jersey. They weighed eleven hundred and sixty pounds and brought $11.25 per hundred.

The cattle sold this week by Kallal represents the last of a group of two hundred and twenty head bought by him in Kansas City nine months ago. He has been preparing them for market since that time.

Sponsor Trip to Game

Harry Richards, chairman of the Boys and Girls activities of the newly organized Lions club of Jerseyville, announced Friday that the local group and possibly the Harding Lions club will sponsor a trip to a big game baseball game in St. Louis on August 7th, for the boys and girls between the ages of ten and sixteen years.

The pilgrimage is the result of an invitation extended by the St. Louis Cardinals baseball management to the youngsters, to see a "big league" game and they will be admitted to the free "knot hole" section of Sportsman's park to see the Cincinnati-Cardinals game.

Journal-Courier Offers Boys, Girls Chance to See League Ball Game

Hi Kids!—Want to see a crucial big league ball game? You can, and may see it free July 22 when the Cardinals and Giants meet in their crucial series at Sportsman's park in St. Louis.

That day has been set aside by the St. Louis Cardinal management as Jacksonville day at the ball yard—a day when all boys and girls from Jacksonville between the ages of 10 and 16 years will be admitted free with the St. Louis Knot-Hole gang for one of the big games of the series.

There are no strings attached to this offer. The Journal and Courier are sponsoring the day and expect to have anywhere from 300 to 400 people in St. Louis that day—Monday, July 22. The newspapers will solicit automobiles to transport those who are unable to find a means of getting to the game, and already have secured a number of cars for this purpose.

The motor caravan will leave Jacksonville about ten o'clock in the morning, and will arrive in St. Louis in time to have lunch before going to the game. The Jacksonville delegation will arrive in plenty of time to watch all of the warming up drills, and all of the youngsters who make the trip will be admitted in the knot-hole section of the grandstand free of charge.

Special arrangements have been made to take care of the large number of persons who will be needed to transport the army of young Jacksonvilleans who will want to see this game. A special section of the boxes will be set aside for the Jacksonville men, and they will be admitted to this section for the payment of the regular grandstand price.

In order to keep a close check on the number of boys and girls who want to go to the ball game, and the drivers of the automobiles, every one of the boys and girls will be required to register at the newspaper office, giving their name and the person with whom they are going, if they are able to make arrangements. If they are unable to make arrangements, they will be invited to register later, and if it is possible, arrangements will be made to take them to the game.

A block of tickets for the adults wishing to see the game will be on sale at the Journal and Courier office, entitling them to sit in the reserved section, along the third base line, on Jacksonville Day. The plan has received the endorsement of the Chamber of Commerce professional men of the city.

Mayor F. J. Blackburn will be invited to toss the first ball, and members of the city council and county officials will be invited to accompany the delegation.

PERCY MCKEAN DIES FROM GUN SHOT INJURY

Former Jacksonville Cafe Owner Kills Self Here Saturday

Percy McKean, former owner of Percy's Cafe on North Main street, died at seven o'clock last night at Our Saviour's hospital, as the result of a gun shot wound, self-inflicted, at 2:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon. McKean fired the fatal bullet into his brain at the home of his wife, Mrs. Bertha McKean, 317 East Madison street. Ill health and marital troubles were blamed for the act.

An inquest was conducted at the Guilham Funeral Home last night by Deputy Coroner Charles Stromatt and a verdict of death due to "shock and hemorrhage and paralysis of the central nervous system caused by a bullet wound in the head fired from a .38 calibre S. & W. revolver by his own hand," was returned. The jurors were Earl Ward, Houston Ward, Earl White, Charles N. Wyatt, Vernon Miskell and Joe Clancy. Miss Helen Ward was the stenographer.

The bullet from the revolver tore a large hole in the head of McKean, the leaden missile entering his head just above the right ear and emerging at the back of the head. McKean, according to testimony at the inquiry, had gone to the home of his wife to attempt to effect a reconciliation. He asked his wife if she would again live with him and when she replied in the negative drew a revolver from his overalls. As soon as Mrs. McKean saw him obtain the gun he grabbed both of his arms and attempted to keep him from using the firearm, but he succeeded in wrenching free and placing the gun to his head pulled the trigger, falling to the floor blood gushing from the gaping wound.

Mrs. Norah Miller and her daughter Alberta, with whom Mrs. McKean resided, hearing the struggle in Mrs. McKean's room arrived at the scene of the scuffle just as McKean died the fatal shot. Police were notified and Chief Frank Kiloran and Sergeant George Vasconcellos went to the McKean home. They saw that McKean was still breathing and summoned Dr. V. H. T. Leuth and the Withe ambulance. McKean was removed to Our Saviour's hospital, where he died last night. Vasconcellos told the coroner's jurors that they found McKean lying on the floor, the gun with one discharged cartridge in his right hand.

Mrs. McKean and other witnesses stated that McKean had been drinking heavily, and when under the influence of liquor often became quarrelsome and at times threatened to kill himself. Mrs. McKean said she took the room apart from her husband at the home of Mrs. Miller, 317 East Madison street, last Monday, the date when the cafe was sold. McKean, however, had visited his wife several times this week, and yesterday asked her to return to him.

Mrs. Miller said she had worked at the Percy Cafe for several months and that because of McKean's drinking there had been trouble. He also suffered ill health. It was brought out at the inquest, and McKean had often remarked it would be better if he was dead.

Dr. Leuth said McKean was in an unconscious condition when he arrived at the McKean home. The large calibre bullet tore a huge hole in the head of the suicide victim.

The deceased was born in this city, August 23, 1897, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam McKean. He was married November 24, 1924, to Bertha Roach, who survives. He also is survived by one sister, Mrs. Lois Anders, of this city, and one brother, Willard McKean, of Shenandoah, Iowa.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.
